

Three products that keep what people and organizations say, do and publish on the record.

Aura for public communication. Orchestrate for business relationships. Colophon for authored work.

THE PROBLEM

What people say, and what organizations promise, disappears.

Posts scroll away. Context splits across apps. Promises made in a meeting or a message are hard to find later. When it matters, no one can show who said what, or what was agreed.

Each of our products keeps that record: who said or did something, and when, stays attached to it.

THE COMPANY

Three products. One governance pattern.

Aura

Public-first communication. People speak and take part in the open under their own identity; institutions join under verified identity and answer on the same record.

Orchestrate

A governed execution platform for business relationships. AI is present at every step, but never acts ahead of a deterministic check.

Colophon

Reading, authorship and publishing for authored work. A work keeps its author, its editions and its provenance.

Built independently. The products share no code, database or infrastructure. No product is a feature of another.

AURA

Public communication that keeps its context.

People raise what matters in the open and answer under their own name. Institutions (government bodies, universities, companies, associations, public offices) take part under verified identity and answer on the same record.

What it does today

Public posts and discussions, spaces, verified institution presence, announcements and correspondence, meetings and live rooms, identity verification.

What it is not

Not a consumer social app: no algorithmic feed, no engagement bait, no public follower counts.

ORCHESTRATE

Governed execution for business relationships.

Orchestrate carries a relationship from first contact to a paid, delivered engagement: discovery, qualification, outreach, agreement, delivery, billing. AI is present at every step and never runs past a governed decision point.

Built for

Businesses in regulated or reputation-sensitive sectors, where ungoverned outbound execution carries real risk.

What it is not

Not a general CRM, and never autonomous AI.

COLOPHON

Authored work that keeps its author.

A house for reading, authorship and publishing. Works, editions and every language a work lives in keep their author and provenance, as a permanent and verifiable record.

WHERE WE ARE

The products are built and operating.

Aura	Web, Apple App Store, Google Play, Microsoft Store.
Orchestrate	Web, Apple App Store, Google Play, Microsoft Store.
Colophon	Web, Google Play, Microsoft Store. Apple App Store in review.
Commercial	Pre-revenue. No paying customers, no pilots, no design partners, no letters of intent.
Capital	Founder-funded. $0 outside capital. No SAFEs, notes, warrants or options outstanding.

The unfinished part is commercial, not technical. The first customer is the evidence every later decision depends on.

THE ROUND

$550,000 pre-seed.

Instrument	Simple early-stage convertible financing, SAFE-style where appropriate. Final mechanics subject to counsel, given the LLC form.
Valuation	Not established.
Runway	15 months, with the reserve intact at the end.
Use of funds	Team and operating capacity · customer and institution acquisition · product and infrastructure execution · provider, cloud and AI operations · legal, finance and insurance · distribution · contingency.
Milestones	A client can transact in Orchestrate · the first revenue in company history · a validated organization-level commercial model with observed usage economics · operating capacity beyond one person · retention and a distribution motion that is not solely the founder.
